French and Indian cruelty: exemplified in the life, and various vicissitudes of fortune, of Peter Williamson. Containing, a particular account of the manners, customs, and dress, of the savages; of their scalping, burning, and other barbarities, committed on the English in North-America, during his residence among them ... Comprehending in the whole, a summary of the transactions of the several provinces in America; particularly, those relative to the intended attack on Crown-Point and Niagara. And an accurate and succinct detail of the opera-

Winckelmann, Johann Just, 1620–1699. Der amerikanischen neuer welt beschreibung ... 1664. (Card 3)

In the "Verrede von Johann Staden [etc.]" (p. 132–137) the author states that Staden wrote his account in Cassel and that illustrations were there cut in wood. Whether this account appeared in print or not he does not know; but adds that the original woodcuts had recently been found in Cassel and that he had them inserted in this book. The woodcuts in the present edition are not the same as those in the original edition of Staden, Frankfurt, 1556 (as stated in the catalogue of the Carter Brown collection); they have nothing in common with them.

The witch of Wapping. Or an exact and perfect relation, of the life and devilish practises of Joan Peterson, that dwelt in Spruce island, near Wapping; who was condemned for practising witch-craft, and sentenced to be hanged at Tyburn, on Munday the 11th of April, 1652. Shewing how she bewitch'd a child, and rock'd the cradle in the likeness of a cat; how she frighted a baker; and how the devil often came to suck her, sometimes in the likeness of a dog, and at other times like a squirrel. Together, with the confession of Prudence Lee, who was burnt in Smithfield on Saturday the 10th of this instant
